FOREWORD

We live in a streamlined world as exemplified in our architecture, art, music, means of transportation, even our conversation. This world is in a period of political unrest, power of force, mass production, dynamic energy, and terrific change. Yet, perhaps in fear, perhaps from wisdom, or by viewing the conditions around us, one gains a new estimation of the worth of that quality known as the human personality; it becomes all the more precious, something of great value to be cherished.

In this edition of the Illiwoco, we are striving to portray by our art work, informality, even simplicity, the spirit of this streamlined era. At the same instant we are striving to capture the distinct personality of MacMurray College and that individual part of each girl's personality common to all that makes her a MacMurray girl.

It is a silent, powerful overtone that is present in tradition, buildings, classrooms, social activities, and athletics, but most of all in associations with fellow students.

This awareness is the invisible bond that makes our MacMurray more than an institution of learning but a personality in itself. This is the bond we have used to bind this Illiwoco into a "book with a purpose"—to record in picture and prose the activities and achievements of the College in the year of 1940.

Mrs. C. P. McClelland

D I C A T I O N

Each fall the freshmen are invited to the President's Reception. There they meet one whose friendship each girl values highly all during her life at MacMurray—Mrs. C. P. McClelland.

The interests of the girls of MacMurray are first in the interests of Mrs. McClelland. Rarely is there a college activity that she does not attend. She is the head of the dining hall, supervising the planning of meals and preparations for special dinners and banquets. She sees that the dormitory rooms are in good condition and well-furnished. The official title beside her name is Coordinator of College Activities. In reality she is head of a household of daughters—six hundred strong.

Her own lovely home is open to all and here guests of the College are graciously entertained. She is the mother of five, three of whom are MacMurray girls. Her friendly smile, quiet dignity, and great wisdom are all part of her charming personality.

It is with great pride we, the staff of the 1940 Illiwoco, dedicate our book to Mrs. C. P. McClelland, homemaker and gracious lady.

The entrance to MacMurray Hall is literally the "door to knowledge" for almost all MacMurray girls, for it is here most of the classes are held.

ADMINISTRATION • FACULTY • STUDENTS

President Clarence Paul McClelland

Dr. McClelland came to MacMurray College for Women in 1925, when it was then Illinois Woman's College. His years as president have seen the erection of four new buildings and countless other improvements which have made the college a better place for the students, who fondly call him "Dr. Mac."

"Dr. Mac's" well-filled shelves attest to his love of reading, though one can't see where he finds time.

DEAN
ROMA N. HAWKINS

Roma N. Hawkins, dean of upperclassmen, is a graduate of Wellesley College. She was engaged in personnel work before coming to MacMurray in 1931. A sympathetic friend as well as an adviser, Mrs. Hawkins leads a lively student discussion group weekly.

MARY E. BAIRD

Mary E. Baird was engaged in the fall of 1937 to fill the newly created position of freshman dean. She was well qualified, due to her experience as dean of girls in a metropolitan high school, and brings many interesting experiences as a missionary in Egypt.

ALBERT C. METCALF, B.S.

Mr. Metcalf, registrar, and secretary of the faculty, tends to many more things than his titles would infer. New bushes and sidewalks are traceable to his actions.

HAROLD E. GIBSON, A.B., A.M.

Besides publicizing the college in excellent fashion through news of student affairs, and the View Book, Mr. Gibson advises the Greetings, Illiwoco and debate team.

HERBERT J. LENNOX, A.B., A.M., Ph.D.

Dr. Lennox, director of admissions, sees that prospective students have such a good time that they cannot refrain from signing up as freshmen right away.

S. G. A. officers gather for a meeting. Seated: Ryniker, Breder; Standing, Wilson, Roseberry, McClelland, Allison.

Student Government Institutes Changes

Closed night was the major change in the college rules effected by the Student Government Association this year. By this plan, all club and society meetings are held on Monday nights, and girls are required to be on campus the entire evening with the exception of a forty-five minute period. This system has contributed to the more efficient allotment of time in the school week. Another progressive measure was the division of the organization into legislative, judicial and executive boards, giving each division more scope, yet uniting them, too. Three delegates were sent to the N.S.F.A. convention at Christmas time, and a convention of the east and west central districts was held on campus April 12 and 13. Continued actions were the Student Orientation Service, student opinion forums, and fun nights.

Play Between Papers

Busy as the energetic members of the Class of 1940 were, they found the time to continue the class project they started back in their green-ribbon days—a directory of all students which has become a college necessity. An unusual number of senior coffees this year, announcing the engagements of senior girls who will soon desert books for kettles, has added to the excitement. Enthusiasm for sports has been a keynote of this class' years, and, for the first time in the history of the college, the senior team won the interclass basketball title all four years. The Senior Ball, with Kay Kellogg as queen, was a thrilling event, preceded by a formal dinner, and followed by a Sunday tea. Yet in between concentration papers, the class found time for two house dances, with Connie King and Jeanne Tripp as heads, and the annual Play Day in April, which took the entire class off-campus for a day of relaxation and fun.

A group of seniors camp for an informal chat on the stairs of Ann Rutledge Hall.

Juniors Have A Successful Year

Being the smallest class has not made any difference in the spirit and activity of the Class of 1941. New class songs presented at a dinner advertising stunt for the class project were just one of their novel doings. The Forty-One Club featured the class orchestra, the Junior Swingco-pators. Carol McClelland was chairman of the one night stand of this night club. Simplicity typified the arrangements for the Junior Prom, under the direction of Roberta Butler. House dances, proms and projects did not detract from studies, though, for the class had the highest percentage of girls on the semester honor roll.

Sophomores Keep School Class Conscious

Lively as they come, the members of the Class of 1942 were the first on the campus this fall, by virtue of their positions as counsellors to the incoming freshmen. Since that first moment of their importance as upperclassmen, they have not allowed anyone to forget that they, as a class, stand together, with their serenades, their table parties, even their tearings around on Fourth Harker. As a class project, the jolly sophomores presented a style show. Bonnie Bach was general chairman of the event. Their Cotillion, with enough girls attending to warrant the use of the dining hall, was a red-letter day on the March calendar. Mani Kronborg led the grand march.

A group of freshmen enjoy a few minutes' relaxation in the Social Room.

Two hundred and ninety-one freshmen from twenty-three states make MacMurray's largest class, ever. Yet these girls are not lost among their many classmates, but each one has a part in the activities of the school. This was shown conclusively in their class project, the MacMurray Varsity Show. Undreamed-of talent from the Class of 1943 made the proceedings grand entertainment. Appearing on the amateur show was a group of freshmen songstresses, the Merry Macs. Never will the freshmen forget their green ribbons, the day of enforced silence, or their initiation; nor the unadulterated good times at the Christmas party about the Social Room fire, the perfect suppers at McClelland's, and best of all, their own class dance, held in the dining hall April 20.

Institute Examines Durable Peace

"The Essential Elements of a Durable Peace" was considered from every angle at the MacMurray Institute this year. Dr. Maynard C. Krueger, professor of economic law at the University of Chicago, told of the gross differences in the privileges of various nations, which contribute to the economic competition which is a major cause of war. In discussing the contribution of American foreign policy, Dr. Quincy Wright, professor of international law at the University of Chicago, advocated an economic internationalism to be realized through breaking down high tariffs. Rev. Albert B. Coe, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Oak Park, outlined a program which the Church should follow to recognize the essentials of durable peace from a religious standpoint. Clarence Streit, author of Union Now, plans a union of democracies in the sense that United States is a union of forty-eight different states. An interesting meeting on the program was the debate between two girls from Northwestern University and two MacMurray debaters on the question of economic isolation.

Make Varied Series

The nine dates on the MacMurray College-Community Artist Series were filled with an interesting and varied assortment of people. Henry Jackson, talented young pianist, opened the series. Hertha Glatz, young Viennese contralto, pleased all with her brilliant contrasts. Erika Mann brought a personal touch to the German situation, and gave a delineation of circumstances with untold clarity. Emanuel Feuerman impressed his audience with his mastery of the 'cello. Carl Van Doren reviewed his recent biography of Benjamin Franklin in a conversational style. Oswald Garrison Villard gave a journalistic discussion of the timely crisis in world affairs. Ruth Page, Bentley Stone and company, showed how ballet is becoming modernized with bizarre and dramatic effects realized in movement and costume. Artur Rubenstein transported his audience beyond the auditorium with the wizardry of his piano fingers. The remarks of Hugh Gibson ended the program on an optimistic note.

Debaters Meet Many Collegiate Opponents

The MacMurray varsity debate team, consisting of Mary Butler, Barbara Butler, Patty Norbury, Helen Meyer, Grace Fenne, Virginia Allen, Betty Nystrom, Doris Kleymeyer, and Doris Arnold, has been exceptionally active during 1939 and 1940, and has met with considerable success. Debating the intercollegiate subject, "Resolved: That United States should adopt a policy of strict economic and military isolation toward all nations engaged in armed international or civic conflict outside the Western hemisphere," the negative team, consisting of Betty Nystrom and Helen Meyer, won second place in the Illinois State Tournament. Scarcely had they returned from this trip when four debaters made the annual tour, this year to the South. On the trip, debates were held at Mississippi College for Women, Murray State Teachers College, Indiana University, and Union College. Another event of the year was the debate with two girls from Northwestern University, as part of the annual institute of the College. Other schools debated include Olivet, Hope, Augustana, Manchester, Principia, Evansville, and Illinois College; Northern Illinois State Teachers College, Millikin University, Eastern Illinois State Teachers College, Iowa State Teachers College, and Indiana State Teachers College.

The varsity debate team plans its spring tour with its coach, Mr. Harold Gibson.

New Little Theatre Now

Two scenes from "A Family Portrait." Mary Magdalene talks to Mary Cleophas, above. Below: Jesus' brothers search for him in the wine shop.

Two three-act plays were presented by the MacMurray Players' Guild this year. "A Family Portrait" was the first. A popular success on Broadway, the play depicts the home life of the family of Jesus of Nazareth, and their reaction to their famous brother and son who was so "different." Betty Primm brought great understanding to the role of Mary, the mother of Jesus, and her scenes with Mary Magdalene, played by Mary Welch, were startlingly poignant. Although Jesus did not appear in the play, His presence was always in the atmosphere. "Dover Road" was the play presented for the Dads on Dads' Day. A modern comedy, the play concerns the whimsicality of a middle-aged bachelor who was portrayed by Betty Zook. Both these productions were directed by Mr. Volney Hampton, who was added to the speech department this year. Mr. D. D. Moore is another new professor in the department, directing the technical side of the plays. He, Miss Dorothy Remley and the stagecraft class built all the sets for "Dover Road" and prepared those for "A Family Portrait." Of great help to the Players' Guild in their second production was the new Little Theater, which was used for the first time. Its advantages over the gym are innumerable, but the greatest, perhaps, is the improvement in the lighting. The Little Theater was the result of renovation of an old gymnasium a block north of the campus, and facing the front of Main Hall. Pale green walls and the beamed ceiling add a romantic touch to the setting for MacMurray's future dramas. With the enlarging of the speech department came the beginning of a radio department which is supervised by Mr. Moore. There Players' Guild members hear how they sound over the air. The final production on the Players' Guild's roster is the musical comedy, "The Merry Wives of Windsor," which will be produced in conjunction with the music department. Officers of the Players' Guild are, president, Roberta Butler; vice-president, Evelyn Klitzing; secretary, Winona Cocking, and treasurer, Betty Zook.

Top: Leonard, the unwilling guest, meets the domestic staff of the house on the "Dover Road." Bottom: Two runaway lovers have a heated discussion with their mysterious host, Mr. Latimer.

An excellent fireplace is quickly but painstakingly created.

Sally looks over an ad before having it inserted in the Greetings.

Competently managing the advertising and financial end of the College Greetings, the business staff supported special issues at Christmas, on Dr. Mac's birthday, and several eight-page issues when there was just too much news to put in six. They also contrived to make both ends meet, while sending six delegates to the national press convention in Des Moines in November, and entertaining the Illinois College Press Association in a two-day conference on the MacMurray campus. A crowning achievement was the full-page Easter ad of a local department store. The social life of the staff was not neglected, for the business staff paid for the theater party after the annual Christmas banquet, and for the traditional breakfast for staff members.

The business staff gathered around its desk is: Seated: Hackman, R. Butler, Nystrom, Ritzinger, Kelly and Kisner. Standing: Grieve, Jamison, Rogers, Black, M. Butler, Spink, Richards, Mullins, Lucas, and McElwain.

Standing: Stambaugh, Finney, Layne, Oltman, Sizelove, Mangold, Parsons, Skym, McClelland, Chiasson, Black, Garvin, Witt, Eydmann.
Sitting: Johannaber, Wilson, Alexander, Cook, Tripp, Cain, Grimes, Bucklin.

The Greetings Entertains State Convention

Besides putting out the six-page weekly, with several eight-page issues on important Saturdays, the staff of the MacMurray College Greetings—the MacMurray is a new part of the name this year, to fit with the new script name-plate—entertained the Illinois Collegiate Press Association at its annual convention in April. Speeches by successful journalists, discussions, a party in the Hub, and the awarding of prizes at business sessions filled the two-day program. To tell the whole staff what its six delegates learned at the national press convention, besides how to write letters to faraway places, the staff held institute at the P. E. Cabin. For the second year, the Greetings sponsored the Wabash College Varsity Show on the campus, followed by the Cavemen's Ball, where the two Wabash orchestras alternated. Scarcely recuperated from the rigors of putting on a successful dance, the staff plunged into the production of a twelve-page issue to commemorate Dr. McClelland's birthday and accomplishments. The Greetings Style Book was a new by-publication.

Illiwoco Staff Concentrates on the Annual

Hard at work behind a typewriter, easel, or camera is where one would be likely to find almost any member of the 1940 Illiwoco staff almost any vacant period this year. There they are working at top speed and maximum effort to produce an Illiwoco which is to give pleasure to every girl who will read or autograph a copy. And with every girl in school getting a copy through her activities fee, there are a lot of tastes to please. A few not-too-radical changes have taken place. The class pictures are similar, but not exactly alike, giving each girl the individuality of her own clothes. Seniors can be remembered by their nicknames as well as by their official names. Many of the novel ideas have evolved from the fertile brain of the editor, Jean Stambaugh. Ideas were suggested at the Associated Collegiate Press convention, which the editor and business manager attended. The art work was handled by Eugenia Ennenga. Photography has been managed by Jane Hoefer. Other staff members were Dorothy L. Cook, assistant editor; Carol Carruthers, organization editor; Roberta Butler, society editor; and Jessie Clark, sports editor.

Barbara, business manager, has a minute of repose from the Illiwoco work which keeps her so busy.

Business Staff Finances Illiwoco

Being assured that every girl in the student body has already paid for her Illiwoco in her activities fee has not made the business staff any less active or ambitious this year. All the workers have taken their turn visiting some business man on the square of Jacksonville, to solicit his advertisement for the annual publication. A project of the junior class, the Illiwoco is supported not only by the fee levied at the opening of school, and by its successful advertising campaign, but by an all-school dance as well. Put on right after Thanksgiving vacation, the Ski Jump Jive was based on a winter sports theme. Snowballs and evergreens provided a background for the winter sports accessories which were banked at each fireplace in McClelland Hall. So successful was the dance that it more than compensated the business staff for the expense of the business manager and editor at the national convention of representatives of the collegiate press in Des Moines, Iowa, the last of October. Barbara Butler has supervised the business end of the Illiwoco. Circulation has been managed by Patty Norbury. Jean Wagoner was advertising manager, and had as her assistants Margaret Garner, Mary Roach, Helen Grummon, Dorothy Mae Grigsby, and Jane Allison.

Week-day activities included the keeping of the world service map, Child Welfare activities, and orientation of transfers, a new idea this year. Activities drew to a close with the May Day breakfast.

When you see a flash of brilliant blue and gold over someone's arm, you may be sure that it is one of the members of the MacMurray College Choir rushing to or from a chapel service. The new robes, in school colors, add a note of distinction to the group's appearances. The choir is composed of twenty upperclass girls, chosen in tryouts at the beginning of the year for their musical ability. It is known on campus and off, for it makes frequent contributions of its services at various churches throughout the state, besides at weekly chapel services. The choir is the mainstay of Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter vesper programs, whose popularity has made it necessary to hold two performances. Miss Ann Bonansinga directs the choir in an annual Spring Concert where the group shows off its special ability in a capella singing.

MacMurray Band Acquires New Uniforms

The twirling corps stands behind the band as it appears at an Army-Navy pep session.

The MacMurray Band is one of the newest organizations on the campus, having been in existence only two years. But the strides made by this group have won the respect and support of the student body as a whole. Composed of more than thirty members, the band has presented two concerts, under the baton of Mr. Elbert Edelbrock. The Army-Navy hockey game was one of the first appearances of the year, and the music added great spirit to the occasion. In November the band sponsored The Band Wagon, the only informal dance held on campus this year. Founders' Day and May Day saw other performances by the band, as did Dads' Day when it entertained at the Dads' meeting in new hats. The entire uniforms, blue and gold, arrived soon after. The eight freshmen comprising the twirling corps, under the direction of drum major Jane Knupp, are an added attraction when the band plays.

The ninety home economics majors club together in monthly meetings to study problems in home-making. Meetings this year carried out the various points of the curriculum. Most interesting was the food demonstration by Miss Millicent Atkin of the Evaporated and Irradiated Milk Institute. Mrs. Agger, a MacMurray alumna, and director of the local child welfare clinic, told the girls of her work. Dr. Applebee gave a discussion of home finance. Another interesting meeting was the style show, in which the girls in the applied dress design class modeled the garments they had designed and constructed. The club sent two delegates to the Illinois Home Economics Association convention in Chicago.

More than fifty girls are better informed of events in Europe this year because they are members of the MacMurray branch of the International Relations Club. There are eight hundred and six clubs all over the world sponsored by the Carnegie Endowment for Peace. The semi-annual installment of books sent clubs by the Endowment is donated to the college library. In monthly meetings the club has pertinent discussions following a presentation of some facts on the case by a girl who has looked it up. The Zionist movement into Palestine, the geographic and economic aspects of the Finnish war, and a consideration of the military fronts of the present war were all discussed at meetings this year. To keep all MacMurray up on international situations, the club maintains the I. R. C. blackboard by the Hub, where news is posted each day; and each week some club member writes the I'll Tell the World column in the Greetings. Dues defer expenses of I. R. C. convention delegates.

Kindergarten Majors Sponsor Kiddie Operetta

Kindergarten Klub-ers are happy in a new home this year. New also is their Kabinet system of government. Included on the board are an N. A. C. E. representative, Mary Frances Crump; publicity director, Frances E. Lemke; social chairman, Virginia Witt; marshalls from each class; and operetta chairman, Helen Grummon, who heads plans for the directing, making of costumes and staging of the entertainment the tots give for their parents. New members were initiated informally, wearing safety pins and ribbons to signify their vocation, and formally as well, when they became members of the National Association of Childhood Education. Each year the Klub sponsors a delegate to the N. A. C. E. convention. Kathryn Zeits was chairman of the annual Christmas bazaar which was held with Y. W. this year. Twice a week, any passer by Music Hall would hear the sound of many voices raised in song. That would be the Madrigal Club, largest singing group on the campus, rehearsing for a performance, unless they were singing just for the enjoyment they get from it. Any girl on campus is eligible to belong to the Madrigal Club, although the majority of its members are music majors. Try-outs held each fall are necessary to place a singer in her proper section. Under the direction of Mr. Joseph Cleeland and Mr. David Strickler, the Madrigal Club participates in Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter vesper services, along with the College Choir. This Easter, a feature of their part of the program was the presentation of Pergolesi's Stabat Mater. The club gives an annual spring concert, and is this year planning to join with the Civic chorus of Jacksonville for a performance.

When Mother reads in her own evening paper that Mary Lou is on the honor roll, you may be sure that the Student Press Association has been on its toes, for sending news of MacMurray students to out-of-town papers is the principal function of this club. Five hundred points, signifying two hundred inches of published news, is the goal of each member, for she wants to own a Press Club pin. Noted for a series of successful dances, the Club again rang the bell this year with its College of Danceland, held in conjunction with the debaters. High spot of the evening was the crowning of Doris Lindgren as MacMurray's queen, chosen by Kay Kyser, Professor of the College of Musical Knowledge, from photographs submitted by over a hundred girls or their friends. Proceeds from the dance will take the club members on a visit to some metropolitan newspaper.

Future Authors

Read, Write, Critize

Members of the Scribblers' Club have one common interest among many diverse ones—writing, be it in poetry or prose. Sometimes they try their hand at set forms; oftener they let imagination rule. They give reports on various modern authors, including Dorothy Parker and Gertrude Stein, and play critic to one another's literary attempts in the monthly manuscript meeting. Scribblers let themselves be heard in a chapel program, and in the annual open meeting. Literary guests to the campus are entertained by Scribblers' as a matter of course. This year guests include Raymond Jameson, and the sister of Vachel Lindsay. Scribblers' original Christmas cards have become a MacMurray tradition.

Business Students Meet On Mutual Ground

Several outside speakers have been centers of interest at the monthly meetings of Tironian Club, which is composed of majors and minors in the field of business administration. Various phases of life in business have been presented in order to help the business students have a more definite contact with the business world. Besides looking out for their future, members of the club have many good times among themselves. Each fall they have a coffee for the new members. Their annual spring banquet at Colonial Inn was on a Leap Year theme this year. Dean Roma Hawkins was a special guest. One weekend in April the club spent at the P. E. cabin.

Red and white hearts sprinkled around the balcony, and red heart programs, which they spent many hours cutting out, were features of the Town Girls' dance, the "Sweetheart Hop." This group of girls, which make up one of the largest clubs on the campus, is composed of Jacksonville girls. They meet each other frequently as they spend hours between classes in the Town Girls' Room, but once a month they meet more formally for a supper meeting. At such times they listen, also, to an interesting speaker of the evening. Their last meeting of the year is a gala event, with a picnic at Nichols Park followed by an informal dance at the Country Club. Having been organized formally, with a constitution for only two years, the club has already made its place on the campus, and enters enthusiastically into all the school activities.

Council Unifies Intersociety Activities

The Intersociety Council is made up of the presidents and vice-presidents of the four upperclass literary societies, for the purpose of unifying the activities of its members. The first activity of the year is the supervision of rushing plans, and the council is the author of the rules which are incorporated in the "Brown Book." By virtue of their offices, the members of the Intersociety Council for 1939-40 includes Isabel Stoops and Janith Anderson, Phi Nu; Mary Jeanette Hemphill and Patty Norbury, Belles Lettres; Barbara Hickie and Gayle Yontz, Theta Sigma; and Mary Helen Melvin and Jane Hoefer, Lambda Alpha Mu. The council which has Dean Roma N. Hawkins as adviser, does not limit its activity to rushing supervision alone, but is active throughout the year. A new ruling this year was that providing for one formal Intersociety coffee instead of four individual society teas. The coffee followed a formal dinner, where council members sat together. Janith Anderson, as president of the Council, was chairman of the coffee. Patty Norbury is secretary. The Intersociety Council also sponsors the Intersociety formal, which, usually limited to society members alone, was this year expanded to include delegates to the S. G. A. convention which was being held on the campus at the time.

Council members gathered for a meeting include Yontz, Norbury, Melvin, Anderson, Hemphill, Hoefer, Stoops and Hickie.

Belles Lettres

Belles Lettres sisters have heard a series of programs dealing with girls of all types everywhere. Besides talks by their own members, Dr. Kimball, Mr. Rowland and Mrs. Alice Applebee, have addressed the group. Belles Lettres rushees spent the week at the movies, for the parties included a breakfast, complete with a masked hold-up in the "Jesse James" manner. "Gone With the Wind" saw dancing in the atmospheric setting of the Colonial Inn. A "coketail" hour, "College Humor," and "An Invitation to Happiness," supper-dancing at the Dunlap rounded out the program directed by Patty Norbury and Roberta Butler. Friendly with the other societies, the Belles Lettres enjoyed a Hallowe'en party at the P. E. cabin with the Thetas, and a scavenger party with the Phi Nus as guests. A high spot on the spring calendar was the dinner-dance at the Country Club April 20, in conjunction with Lambda society. Betty Fitzer represented the Belles Lettres on arrangements committees. Scheduled last in the order of open meetings, the Belles Lettres offered their guests a dramatic representation of the phases of love through the ages. Patty Norbury planned the program. A tea for alumnae and honorary members was another date on the social calendar. The Spring banquet before the annual campus sing is the event which closes a happy Belles Lettres year. Officers for 1939-40 have been: President, Mary Jeanette Hemphill; vice-president, Patty Norbury; treasurer, Dorothy Mae Grigsby; secretary, Vivian Cooper.

Lambda Alpha Mu

"Redecoration of the hall" has a magic sound, and was one of Lambda's accomplishments before rushing began. The whitening of woodwork and other renovations was in the capable hands of Margaret and Florence Anderson. Lambda's programs of the year centered around schools of foreign lands, and faculty members told the girls of customs in England, France, Turkey and Bulgaria. Lambda pledges were initiated into society's Four Hundred, with the aid of Jane Hoefer and Virginia Moyer. One of Lambda's famed chili suppers welcomed the new group of pledges. The spring's round of social activities was started with a coffee for alumnae and honorary members. "Artists and Models" was the theme of the open meeting which presented new spring styles and an array of Lambda talent in song, speech and dance. April 20 saw the dinner-dance held at the Country Club with the Belles Lettres—an outstanding society memory. A fitting climax was given the year by a breakfast for seniors and the annual spring banquet. Lambda Alpha Mu's activities of the year were directed by Mary Helen Melvin, president; Jane Hoefer, vice-president; Mary Roach, secretary; and Ruth Zwissler, treasurer.

Phi Nu

Phi Nu sisters have planned many a good time among themselves and with other people during the year. The Amazon Hour, to welcome the Wabash men to MacMurray for their "Varsity Show" was the first of these. A Christmas party with Lambda, an afternoon of bridge for the Belles Lettres, and an alumnae tea have all added to gaiety. The society purchased wooden pledge pins shaped in the society oak leaf for their pledges who were ushered into the society with song. Connie King and Kay Pickering based rushing plans on popular songs. Those songs represented were "Sunrise Serenade," "Especially for You," "Cabin in the Pines," and "And the Angels Sing." A project was the redecoration of the hall, mainly in the painting of the walls and woodwork old ivory, and constructing white bookshelves in one corner. Phi Nu meetings were interesting and varied, with faculty and outside speakers, discussions within the society, and presentation of sister talent. The biggest parade of talent took place at the open meeting which was supervised by Eugenia Ennenga. Speech, music, dance, and art each had its representative, and the skit which closed the program included all four. Active members and alumnae alike look forward to Phi Nu's dinner dance, traditionally held the night before May Day, and this year taking place at the Dunlap Hotel. Directors of Phi Nu activity this year have been Isabel Stoops, president; Janith Anderson, vice-president; Carol McClelland, treasurer; and Ruth E. Funk, secretary.

Theta Sigma

The redecoration bug hit the members of Theta Sigma society just before Christmas, and they returned from vacation to find a newly-painted hall. The Christmas spirit at their annual party was directed to the hall's benefit, and a new hassock and mirror resulted. To make money, Thetas helped girls wrap their packages, set hair, and manicured nails. They maintained a booth at the Christmas bazaar, selling donated packages. New Theta pledges spent days of rushing in King Neptune's Realm, visiting the Coral Commissary, Porpoise Playground, Seaweed Salon, and the Codfish Ball. These parties were planned by Ann Spink. Gala memories include those of the Hallo-we'en party at the P. E. Cabin, the coffee for alumnae and honorary members, and the final spring banquet. Delta Theta Nu

Members of Delta Theta Nu meet in Jane Hall lounge to hear a speaker they know will be interesting.

Joy takes time out to sit in a snow bank.

Epecially interesting meetings have been the leading features of Delta Theta Nu's activities during the present year. Meeting each Monday night in the lounge of Jane Hall, the girls have heard talks by Mrs. Wallace Applebee, Miss Mary Anderson, Dr. Mable Walter, and Mrs. Marian Chase problems of personal hygiene they might have, and Mrs. Marian Chase Schaeffer, who read some poetry at the society's Christmas party. A debate between the MacMurray team and that from Illinois Wesleyan University was the feature of the March 4 meeting. Active in all goings-on of freshmen, Delta Theta Nu entered the freshman intersociety one-act play contest with "Londonderry Air." This play concerns a nineteenth century bound-out girl who deserts her fiance to run away with an Irish singer of the Londonderry Air. Delta Theta Nus had their open meeting on April 22, and their formal banquet at the Colonial Inn on April 27. Mona Steele was chairman of this event which was based on a theme of a French Flower Garden. Frances Platt has been sponsor of Delta Theta Nu, and the officers are Joy Hackman, president; Jan Blake, vice-president; Jeanne Puckett, secretary; and Mona Steele, treasurer.

Kappa Sigma Theta

Coming to the fore in the activities of the freshman societies early in the year, Kappa Sigma Theta won the freshman intersociety one-act play contest. Its entry, "Undertow," is the story of two sisters, one of whom loves the man the other marries. These two girls were played by Mary Jo Brown and Maribeth Greene. Shirley Jeanne Davis was the student director of the play, and was aided by senior speech major Connie King, who is the sponsor of Kappa Sigma Theta. Well-balanced meetings have been a keynote for the activities of this society. The impressive installation service is not soon forgotten. Business meetings have occupied some Monday nights and others have seen the appearance of guest speakers. One of the most memorable of these was Mrs. Marian Chase Schaeffer on March 4. Mixing social life with meetings, the girls had a sledding party at the Country Club just after Christmas vacation. The Country Club was the scene of another good time when the society held its formal banquet there April 27. Those who guided the activities of Kappa Sigma Theta this year were: Margaret Heideman, president; Alice Finney, vice-president; Shirley Jeanne Davis, secretary; and Maribeth Greene, treasurer.

Margaret stops for a bit of refreshment at the Hub.

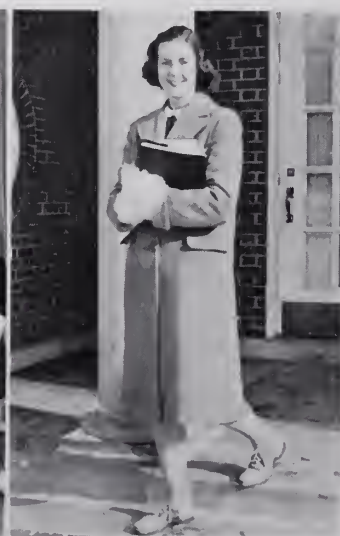

Kappa Sigma Thetas bundle up, preparatory to their sledding party.

Phi Kappa Delta

Main Hall's social room was the scene of many active meetings of freshman society Phi Kappa Delta. These enthusiastic girls have not contented themselves with their three monthly meetings, as interesting and instructive as they have been, but have become innovators in the matter of meetings, having held the first open house presented by any freshman society. Talent from within the society was presented to entertain the other freshmen who were guests, and a quiz program, modeled after a popular radio program, was a feature of the evening. Phi Tau Epsilon won this "Battle of the Societies." Doris Arnold aided Mary Welch, senior speech major who was sponsor of the society, in directing "A Viennese Hour," Phi Kappa Delta's entry in the intersociety play contest. The cast included Estelle Kimball, Marian Hansen, Ruth Thomson, Jo Ann Lyman, and Lou Martin. A picnic at the P. E. cabin and table parties were other novel meetings. May 16 the society held a formal banquet at Colonial Inn. Officers of the society are Mary Dilworth, president; Betty Spikes, vice-president; Barbara Smaus, secretary; and Patricia Lewis, treasurer.

Phi Tau Epsilon

Keeping up with the news of the world is one service that Phi Tau Epsilon has rendered its members at their weekly meetings. Each week some girl gives the group a summary of the week's news. The rest of the year's meetings have featured various outside speakers and performers. Under the sponsorship of senior speech major Betty Zook, the society won honorable mention in the freshman intersociety one-act play contest. "Caleb Stone's Deathwatch" was the title of their play which was a satirical fantasy concerning the number of people who were watching at the deathbed of an eccentric miser, who was played by Jane Lyman. Sara Jean Crooks was chairman of Phi Tau Epsilon's spring banquet, April 5. An April showers theme was carried out in the decorations and program. Instead of Christmas gifts for each other, the Phi Taus sent their money to a Chinese relief fund. Officers are Jo Heitman, president; Marjorie Merrill, vice-president; Lucille Norbury, secretary; and Virginia Walkup, treasurer.

ATHLETICS

Athletic Board Directs Campus Sports

The Athletic Association officers, sports manager, and class representatives comprise the association board, which is responsible for inter-class sports, the awards, traditional occasions such as Dad's day and May day, and the annual Hallowe'en costume party. Extensive drives to create more interest in recreational sports as well as seasonal games have notably advanced the success of the year.

Mariella's friendly manner makes the board meetings interesting and constructive.

The annual sports day was planned to include basketball and swimming, both of which were enjoyed by the visiting college teams. Participation at the North Central district convention plus inter-collegiate play-days concluded a successful year which will be hard to equal.

The two bows curve high against the sky as these two archers are about to loose their arrows.

Tennis, with the four paved courts offering excellent facilities, is one of the most favored recreations.

Baseball, major spring sport, again brings the classes into keen and exciting competition.

Freshmen Outswim Upper Classes At Annual Meet

The swimming pool is a popular retreat for students as an extra-curricular activity as well as for class instruction, A. A. credit, Dad's day, and sports day. At the annual swimming meet the freshmen splashed through to claim their first major victory of the year, the sophomores were second, the seniors third. In the free style race Wessel and Thomas showed particular skill and were the leaders of that race. Thomas was also in the lead in the breast stroke and the back crawl races. Fine diving on the part of all entered made judging hard, but the seniors placed first. Strawbridge took the blue ribbon with Way following close behind. Excitement ran at a high pitch during the free style relay which was won by the freshmen. As a new event a novelty race in the form of an inner tube contest proved to be lively for the audience as well as the participants. Gayle Yontz was the manager of the swimming season.

For one season's credit one must swim at least ten plunge hours during a period of seven weeks. A varsity team, chosen to represent the school at the annual sports day was composed of the following girls: Mary Thomas, Jan Wessel, Anita Lethin, Vivian Vanderpool, and Nan Way, all of whom were a credit to the school.

In the third scene of "A World's Fair Fantasy" the Japanese ceremonial girls appear bearing branches of cherry blossoms.

Dad's Day Pageant, Play Attracts Capacity Crowd

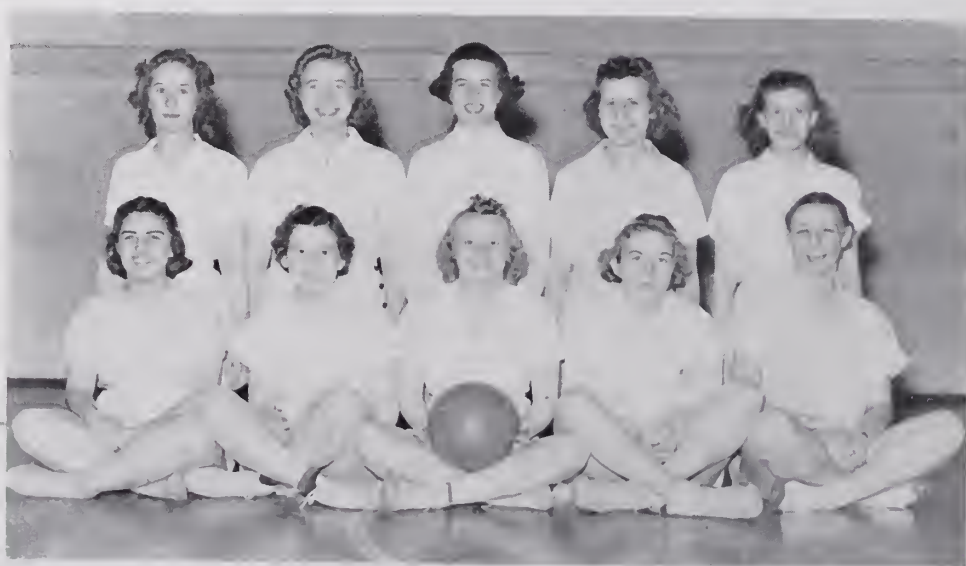

Dad's day, besides being the beginning of spring vacation, is always one of great entertainment for dads. In the morning the water pageant, entitled "A World's Fair Fantasy," was given under the direction of and written by Gayle Yontz. The first scene depicts German swimmers doing the waltz crawl in an intricate pattern to the tune of "The Blue Danube." The second scene consisted of a group of dancers swimming in a typical Egyptian formation. The Japanese ceremonial girls, carrying cherry blossoms and bowing before the sacred dragon, followed. To the tune of "Danny Boy," smiling Irish colleens performed some reminiscent formations. The fifth scene presented swimmers and divers of the United States, going through their routine to the music of "Stars and Stripes Forever." In the afternoon, the play, "The Dover Road," was presented in the new MacMurray Little Theater.

Seniors Win For Four Consecutive Years

The seniors, as rulers of the basketball field, cinched their title by winning the intramural championship four consecutive years. A strong, well-balanced, hard-shooting group, they proved their ability by calm assurance and accuracy which saved them in tense moments. Lucy Strawbridge, captain, received the silver plaque at the annual basketball table parties. Members of this four-year undefeated championship team were: Miller, Welch, Coates, Viner, Yontz, Alexander, McLaren, Johnson, Strawbridge, and Mullins. Attaining a position of second was the freshman team, who were a real obstacle for the seniors. Also striving to emerge victors were the sophomores, who came nearest by tying with the seniors, and the juniors, who were trailing in points but outstanding in fun and sportsmanship.

Proving one of the most exciting and active games of the basketball season, the Army-Navy contest was a high light of the year. During the first half, the Army seemingly had little competition, but hard playing by the Navy brought the score to a tie during the second half. As the last seconds ticked away the Army made a basket which gave them the lead and the game. Members of the Army were: Mullins, Strawbridge, Coates, Viner, Lethin, Thomas, Dickey, and Osborne. The Navy players were: Vanderpool, Edwards, Clark, Coffman, Blake, V. Hartman, Wessel, and Kriegshauser.

From the Army-Navy teams came the varsity, which represented MacMurray at the annual play day on this campus at which time there were seven colleges as guests of MacMurray. Coates, Dickey, Lethin, Osborne, Wessel, Mullins, B. Hartman, and Strawbridge were chosen. The colleges at the sports day were: Normal, Illinois College, University of Illinois, Carthage, Millikin, Macomb, and Principia.

Seniors Are Champions; Navy Succumbs To Army

One of the most popular sports was hockey which featured pre-breakfast games during chilly November mornings, the traditional Army-Navy battle, and a faculty versus varsity game at seven in the morning. The seniors were winners of the inter-class games:

The Army and Navy clashed in their annual game and the result favored the Army with one goal against the zero score of the Navy. The members of the two teams were—Army: Goerner, LaBahn, Holle, Hausman, Llewellyn, Osborne, Lethin, Dickey, Strawbridge, Coates, Yontz, and Mullins; Navy: Edwards, Wagoner, Grigsby, Blake, June Clark, Hackman, B. Hartman, Yager, Wessel, Kriegshauser, Shurig, and Jessie Clark. The goat, for the Navy, and the donkey, for the Army, were in evidence, and as a feature for the day the band played during the half. At the annual hockey table parties Miss Spencer read the following as members of the varsity for the coming year: Blake, Coates, Hausman, Jessie Clark, LaBahn, Lethin, Llewellyn, Mullins, Osborne, Strawbridge, and Yontz. The entire season was capably handled by Amy Lou Edwards.

SENIOR BALL QUEEN

Kay Kellogg

Chosen by her class-mates to be "queen of the ball," petite, dark-haired, hazel-eyed Kay played her royal part well—she was a lovely queen.

Seniors Entertain At Annual Ball

Mr. Dickinson, Ann Spink, Mr. Millard, Kay Kellogg, Mr. Welch, Juanita Van Meter.

Diminutive Kay Kellogg wore the crown as the seniors and juniors promenaded at the 1939 Senior Ball on November 13. White leather programs with the college seal in gold dangled from each wrist in an atmosphere of gayety, dignity, and unadulterated good time. Ann Spink's committees functioned in perfect collaboration to produce a traditional function with none of the stiffness of tradition or the mechanism of a function. Senior Doris Johnston appeared on the floor show for the dance which followed a formal dinner for seniors and their escorts.

Juniors Thrill At First Prom

Their first prom is always an event for the junior class which prefaced theirs with a supper party in the Hub, and ended a junior weekend with a tea in Jane Hall lounge. Tradition notwithstanding, the juniors abolished the habit of a Prom Princess this year. Roberta Butler was chairman of the dance which provided the juniors with conversation for weeks. The music of Vince Genovese added to the glamorous atmosphere created by soft lights and spring flowers.

Mr. Black, Roberta Butler, Louise McMath, Mr. Spargur, Dorothy Mae Grigsby, Mr. Miles.

Mary Butler, Harriet Ryniker, Etha Johannaber, and Alice Alexander have lived up to the MacMurray motto of "Knowledge, Faith and Service."

Cap and Gown Membership Honors Four

After Last Chapel adjourns to the steps of Old Main, the members of Cap and Gown, senior honorary society, walk one by one into the group of assembled juniors below, choosing a girl to take her place. In May 1939, those from the group below who mounted the steps were Harriet Ryniker, Etha Johannaber, Alice Alexander, and Mary Butler. These girls were necessarily the unanimous choice of the retiring members. Harriet, president of the Student Government Association; Etha, president of the Young Women's Christmas Association; Alice, editor of the MacMurray College Greetings; and Mary, a varsity debater, are recipients of the highest respect and honor. They are known to exemplify the Cap and Gown ideals of excellence in scholarship, achievements in extra-curricular activities, and the qualities of college spirit and loyalty.

Dorothy L. Cook Receives Conlee-Kent Cup

Dorothy L. Cook was presented with the Conlee-Kent Memorial Cup at Junior Recognition service in November. The cup is awarded each year to the girl who in her sophomore year has best exemplified the MacMurray ideals of "Knowledge, Faith, and Service."

"Cookie" lives in Evanston, Illinois. An English major, her real interest is journalism, which she hopes to make her life work. She is news editor of the Greetings and assistant editor of the Illiwoco this year. Next year Dorothy will capably fill her new role as editor-in-chief of the Greetings.

She is a loyal member of the Belles Lettres society and also of Scribblers. This year she handled the publicity for the Y. W. C. A. and was chairman of the student government forums.

Mac Murray Gives a Party

For the second consecutive year, the Varsity Show from Wabash College, Crawfordsville, Indiana, has appeared on MacMurray College campus, sponsored by the Greetings, college newspaper. This year, on the slightly damp afternoon of January 13, seventy Wabash Cavemen arrived ready for fun. High lights of the activity were the Phi Nu tea dance, dinner in McClelland Hall, the excellent Varsity Show performance, and the Cavemen's Ball. The two orchestras alternated playing for dancing.

A most efficient "date" committee saw that no Caveman was without a hostess, and every girl that so wished, had a Caveman. The holiday was over far too soon, but plans were immediately begun for a return appearance next year.

SEPTEMBER-OCTOBER

September 20th and MacMurray College opens with the usual maze of registration, which bewilders three hundred freshmen. "Science Hall" is the center of business. September and Indian Summer slip by and October rolls around. There is the annual Founders Day banquet on October 12, with Mrs. Ernst Bone, formerly Eileen Kitts, conducting the impressive candle-lighting ceremony. The choir gives the Cinderella Ball, first all-school dance of the year. The seniors don caps and gowns. The last day of October is the ominous day of silence for freshmen ending in the wholesale burning of "little green ribbons" that will be missed.

NOVEMBER

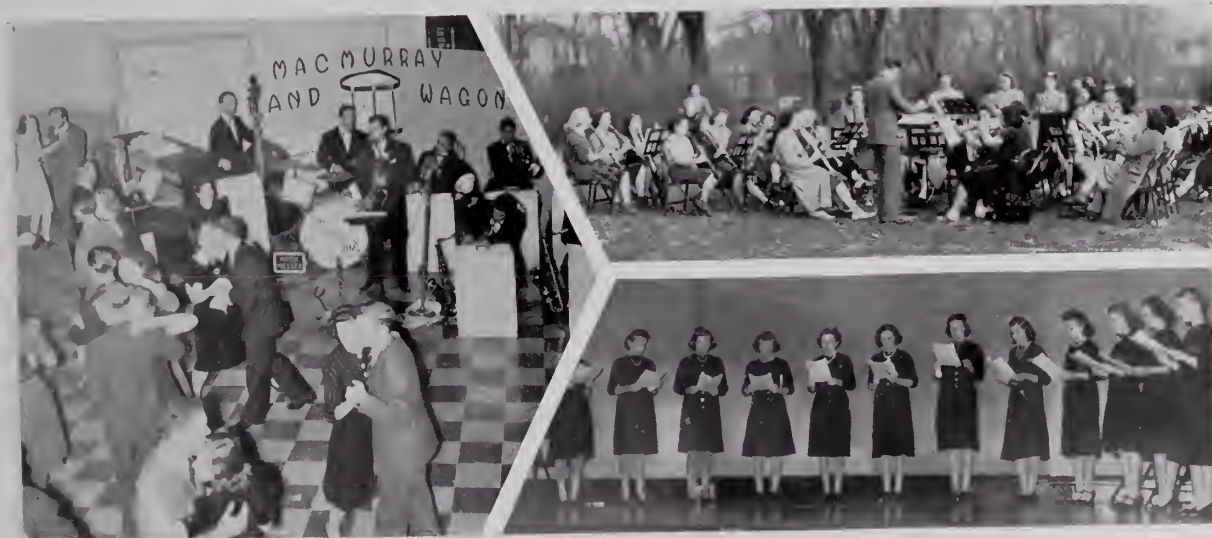

The first week-end of the month, the band presents the first all-school informal dance. Still in the limelight, the small but lively band marches onto the athletic field for the traditional Army-Navy hockey game. (The Army Won.) The speech department introduces choral reading to the college at the Armistice Day program. Twelve speech students formed a speaking choir. The Senior Ball the second week-end is the first major social event on the campus. Thanksgiving vacation is suddenly present and almost everyone goes away for a few days' reprieve.

DECEMBER-JANUARY

The time between coming back and Christmas vacation is only a few weeks, but a dozen and one things have to be crowded in. The Illiwoco presents the Ski-Jump Jive. The Y. W. C. A. and the Kindergarten Klub combine forces to give a very successful Christmas bazaar. The juniors and seniors have house dances, and finally Christmas is here.

Back to school the 4th of January, there seems to be a lull, then a frenzy of studying for semester exams. The "big snow" comes and winter sports take the spotlight. The Wabash Cavemen come over for the dance which is sponsored by the Greetings and fast becoming an annual affair.

MACMURRAY CALENDAR

FEBRUARY

Everyone is starting the second semester with a clean slate and spirits are high. Traditional Heart Sister Week rolls around, and girls get exciting presents via the Post Office. The Town Girls present the very romantic Sweetheart Hop. The romance languages hold their annual colorful Mardi Gras. At last, comes the long awaited Faculty Show that is declared the best ever, and has the students rolling in the aisles at the hit of the evening, Rev. Blair as "Wee Bonnie Baker". The last week-end, the juniors give their prom with all pomp and circumstance, including a receiving line a mile long.

MARCH

Press Club and the debate teams create quite a sensation on campus when they have Kay Kyser select a queen to rule over their MacMurray Danceland. Doris Lindgren, blond freshman, is the band leader's choice. The same day MacMurray is hostess at a play day including about eight schools. The sophomores have their dance planned around a Viennese waltz theme. Spring vacation is preceded by Dad's Day complete with water pageant, band concert, banquet, and the play "Dover Road" first production to be given in the new Little Theater.

APRIL - MAY

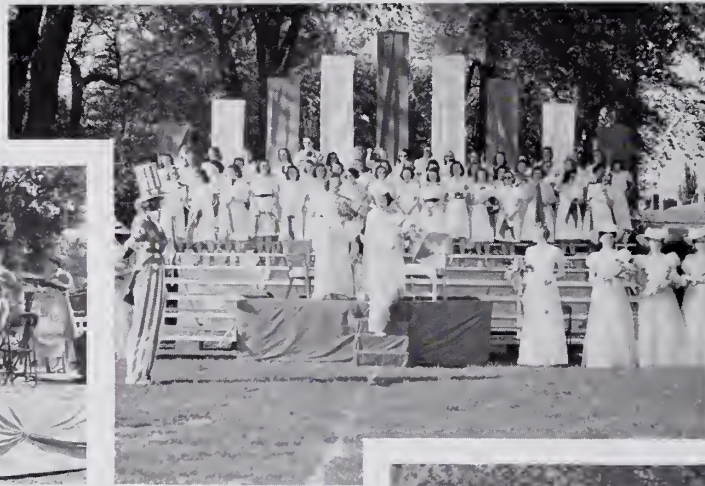

Along comes the month of conventions. The first week-end, Mac girls welcome the Y. W. members of their district. "Club 41", presented by the juniors, is a huge success, especially the skit, "Little Nell". The next week-end, representatives on the N. S. F. A. meet for conference on the campus. The four upper-class societies collaborate for the Inter-Society dance, planned by Jannie Anderson and her committees. The freshmen have their dance. A press convention hits MacMurray. A MacMurray riding team rides off with first prize at the U. of I. horse show.

The month of May is one long round of activities. We hope and pray for a nice May Day. Unbelievably soon, exams are here, and then all the beauty and solemnity of the last week, ending with baccalaureate and commencement.

One of these days

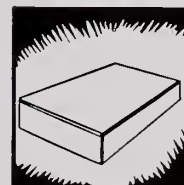

(sooner than you think) you'll be buying printing plates.

Against that day, fix in your mind the name of BURGER-BAIRD. It will then be a more important fact to you than dates (historical — not the other kind) or irregular verbs or formulae.

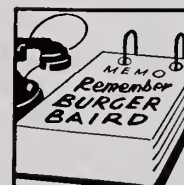

For while there are other good engravers, there is only one Burger-Baird.

Good plates? Yes, the best, and pride in their craftsmanship. Prompt with them, too.

But the main thing that keeps Burger-Baird the best known name among middle-west engravers seems to be—well, call it "savvy." It means interest and understanding, not merely for the engravings, but for your larger objectives as well.

People seem to like that, and so, no doubt, will you. Keep us in mind, won't you?
